Sholan Farm Box, Fallbrook Reservoir Box, Mountain Laurel Box

Take Pleasant Street out of downtown Leominster and stay on it for a little over 3 miles. After you pass the Sholan Farms Stand look for a "Speed Limit 35" sign immediately followed by a rock-ringed parking lot with a kiosk on the right hand side of the road. Pull into this lot and park.
Walk through the field to the wooded trail. As you descend the hill on this trail you will pass by a trail on the left, stay straight. The trail will eventually bear left at the next junction. Continue on as the trail bends again. You will go past an outcropping of white quartz and come to a point where the trail splits. Take a few steps down the path to the right and look into the woods for a 3 trunked pine tree with a large quartz rock in front of it. Go to the far side of the rock and look to the bottom right for the Sholan Farm Letterbox.
Now go back to the split in the trail and continue on following the trail. At the next split in the trail go left. After a short while the blue blazes will reappear. Eventually this trail will lead you out to Fallbrook Reservoir. Turn left at the reservoir and walk 160 steps on the path to a thin, bright white birch tree with sticks at it's base on the left side of the trail. Behind this tree is a splintered tree stump that hides the Fallbrook Reservoir Letterbox.
Go back to the trail and continue walking west. When you get to the next fork in the trail go right and then take an immediate left following the blue dots. Stay on this trail following the blue dots. Eventually you will climb a hill and find yourself amid a multitude of laurel bushes. Look for a flat rock on the left side of the trail with a blue dot on it. Off to the left of that rock is a faint trail that leads up among boulders. Take about 20 steps on that trail past 2 dead trees on the left. The Mountain Laurel Letterbox is under a triangular shaped rock just past the second dead tree. After stamping in and carefully rehiding the box return to your car the same way you came.
